Executive Kittleman forms task force to recommend site locations for potential Elkridge high school

ELLICOTT CITY, MD – Howard County Executive Allan H. Kittleman today created a task force to advise him on potential locations to build a future high school in Elkridge.

Kittleman signed an executive order to create the Elkridge High School Task Force, charging the group with finding potential sites suitable for building a future high school in Elkridge and with determining the costs and unique requirements for each site. Kittleman said those potential sites will include the previously discussed Troy Park location, however he will further direct the task force that Rockburn Branch Park will not be considered.

“As you know, the Board of Education recently decided to build the county’s 13th high school in Jessup. I believe that we will also need to build a 14th high school and that site should be in the Elkridge area,” Kittleman said. “We now have time to explore additional sites and I want this task force to work with the community and the county to identify the best location where the 14th high school should be built.”

Kittleman has named Elkridge resident Sandy Roschli to head the task force. Other members of the task force are: Jose De La Mar, Ananta Hejeebu, Robert Judge, Leslie Kornreich, Julie Merson, Kristy Mumma, Dawn Popp, David Sciamarelli and Becki Vivrette. Renee Kamen, manager of the Howard County Public School System’s Office of School Planning, and Andrew Howard of the Office of the County Executive, will serve as advisors to the task force.

“We want to make sure that the 14th high school is located not only in Elkridge, but in the best possible location for the Elkridge community,” said Roschli. “This task force created by County Executive Kittleman will do its best to make sure that every voice will be heard.”

Kittleman charged the task force with presenting a full report on or before March 31, 2019.

For the school system's employees, Dr. Martirano has the biggest impact. His "pep rallies" in the beginning of the school year seemed to invigorate many workers. His upbeat personality helped the new year to start on a positive foot. BOE members seem to be the people who are blamed for everything (snow days, redistricting, calendar, etc.) by the parents on social media. Their names are always listed when a decision is made in hopes that people will not vote for them again. These are the people who parents have the most face to face meetings with in different community events. An informal community leader is Dawn Popp. She is the president of the Greater Elkridge Community Association. This is a group that has tried to have a new high school built in Elkridge for many years. She attends all meetings that concern the problems of, redistricting, over crowding and finding a spot for the new school. She shares all of her information on social media. A group of informal leaders are all of the people who organize their neighborhoods when the topic of redistricting comes up. They create/present redistricting plans to the Board and have their fellow neighbors show up in number (usually dressed in the same color shirts)at the various meetings. They have affected how redistricting is done in our area.

Tonya Sigalas is heavily involved in the elementary, middle and high schools that her children attend. She attends PTA meetings and lets her opinion known on many topics. She shapes how a lot of events (teacher appreciation week, school dances, after prom, etc.) are ran. She will tell administrators when she doesn't agree with their decisions.

The officers of the school's PTA are very influential. We had a [REDACTED]. Many of hers decisions were based on how it would affect [REDACTED] and not the whole student body. For instance, [REDACTED] and her decisions about food at events were influenced by this. She's the reason why we have fresh fruit on field day. She really wanted to not have freezy pops as a choice but eventually allowed it (woo hoo!). Her children [REDACTED] so she didn't want to put a lot of work into the PTA afterschool activities. When a problem arose that involved in insurance, her solution was the vendors had to have their own insurance. This caused many teachers to stop having after school programs. It would've taken a little work but the PTA could've changed their insurance.

Organized sports has the greatest influence on our school. Many children do not do their homework because " I had soccer last night." Children (and staff) miss school because of tournaments. I know of children who only performed in the school play during the day because they had travel team try outs in the evening. When I was the PTA president, it was very hard to come up with meeting dates because of try outs and games of the parent's kids.

Bella Mias - provides pizzas for only $5 and is used by schools to resell, for parties and for feeding workers at events. They sponsor different events, too.

Tino's - Provides a lot of food for Howard High School. They cater the Friday night dinners for the football team and the sport banquets through out the year. They sponsor different events, too.

Chik-Fil-A - allows Howard High to sell their sandwiches at their concession stands. Howard can only sell them at cost. If they find out that Howard is selling them for more they will no longer sell to Howard.

Green Valley Grocery - PL has field trips there to teach the kids how to behave in stores

Boy and Girl Scouts

EYO

SAC

Howard County Parks and Rec

Towson University - interns

Peabody Conservatory - provide artists in residence

Howard County Police - Otto the Auto presentation, assemblies for the older children (seat belt safety), safety at events

Camp Ilchester - we use them for overflow parking and have nature field trips there

Bruce and Scott,
FYI. I will set up a time with Tim to review the previously listed sites, get general maps etc. Next steps would be for a time table for review, vetting, collaboration with County Ex, etc.

I've not looked at any of the sites, and I believe Bruce had Tim do a preliminary on one site.

And then there is requesting site acquisition money to purchase, too ((sigh)).
