Hi Cindy and Tracy,

I hope you guys had a wonderful spring break. I'm emailing you with some exciting news...The Creative Coping Toolkit has gotten a MAJOR facelift in the past few days. The version you guys are currently using is absolutely still available for you to keep but I wanted you to see the new look and feel. I think it is so much better and easier for everyone to understand and use. The content is the same but the look is different. I am offering to upgrade you guys (free of charge). The new version will be fully available May 1 and it is completely up to you which to choose. Below is a prototype of what it will look like. Take your time in making your choice and feel free to reach out to me with any questions you have.

All My Best,

Peta

Good morning,

I'm getting ready to start working on working with the staff to prepare for launching Race with the student body next school year. I see that I can have teachers set up their access for students. However, I don't want to have them take this step right now. Should I have access different from the teacher access? Or should I set up a teacher account to use for training and previewing purposes with the teachers?

If it's more complicated than that, I will schedule a time to meet with you after spring break - which thankfully begins this afternoon!

Best,
Cindy

Hi Cindy,

We are thrilled to give Centennial High School access to IndieFlix's Creative Coping Toolkit (CCT). Below is some suggested copy that you can send to each teacher to get them up and running. Your school access code is [REDACTED].

Please don't hesitate to reach out with any other questions!
-The iNDIEFLIX Team

Suggested email to be sent to each teacher:

Dear [teacher name/s],

Great news. We have purchased the Creative Coping Toolkit (CCT), a turn-key, online learning program that provides year-long access to the movies and chapter-by-chapter modules that offer clips from the films, discussion guides, quizzes, reflections, and SEL activities. Appropriate for ages 10+.

The program addresses anxiety, bullying, resilience, racism, finding balance with technology and more. It integrates easily into lesson plans and sparks conversation around mental health in a fun and engaging way. It provides tangible, tracked progress, improves critical thinking skills, and encourages students to regulate their emotions and talk openly about mental health. It is especially useful to accommodate in-person, remote learning, or a blend of both. It takes less than 5 minutes to sign in and you're up and running!

Once you create an account, you can always come back to the dashboard and click on CCT for access. Choose between the film or any of the activities associated with each film with your students.

How to sign up:

1. One time only, to create an account click here: <https://app.indieflix.com/educator-signup>

2. Create a user login and Enter [REDACTED] when prompted for your school/teacher access code
3. Create your teacher account
4. After account creation, you will be able to "create a class" and invite students to join the platform.
5. By clicking on "My Students" you will also be able to see which students have signed up and their progress.
6. Finally, if you are logged out and want to log back in, both students and educators can either save the link in their browser or come back to the dashboard and click Creative Coping Toolkit.

Again, please reach out with any questions, we are happy to help!

Kindly,
